

As an American citizen, I own and use REAL guns. It's my Constitutional right

Article the fourth [Amendment II]

A well regulated Militia, being necessary to the security of a free State, the right of the people to keep and bear Arms, shall not be infringed.

Even in the Nevada Constriction

Every citizen has the right to keep and bear arms for security and defense, for lawful hunting and recreational use and for other lawful purposes. Art. I, § 11(1) (enacted 1982).

Granted it's not the WILD WILD WEST, but Did you know it's legal to Open Carry in Nevada- sure the Minimum Age to OC is 18

The worst thing I can do to my family is to teach my children that the guns are taboo.

I rather teach them, they are a normal part of life just like your automobile. And just like any mechanical device, they too need respect in their proper use.

I will not teach them to fear guns, instead I will show them how to master the device and become proficient in their use.

Children and guns actually go together quite well contrary to many politically correct and uneducated viewpoints.

If children have a good moral foundation, whatever you choose that to be, and are taught properly in gun handling, they will be safe and trustworthy gun handlers.

If I patiently teach, demonstrate, and instill safe gun handling for my children , just like many other children you will be amazed at their capabilities.

Should use lots of repetitions in this instruction. Children trained as such are truly inoculated against careless gun handling born out of untrained curiosity and I highly doubt they would ever commit ANY kind of gun crime.

Some ignorant critics will say training your child to shoot will encourage them to be violent. This is more brainwashed and idiotic logic in action.

Having your child proficient and safe in gun handling will no more make him or her a Columbine shooter than having your 16 or 17 yr old licensed driver want to run people down on the sidewalk with an your even more deadly automobile.

It is about parenting not guns and your efforts will instill goodness and responsibility in your children, bottom line - YOUR CAREFUL TRAINING is your best insurance policy against gun accidents with your kids.

The side benefits will be increased self-confidence for the child and great family memories.

You can look up the Facts

Here's what a 1995 federal study investigating juvenile crime found after looking at 20,000 randomly selected households:

Relationship between type of gun owned and percent committing street, drug and gun crimes.

Illegal gun:

Street crimes = 74%

Drug use = 41%

Gun crimes = 21%

No gun:

Street crimes = 24%

Drug use = 15%

Gun crimes = 1%

Legal Gun:

Street crimes = 14%

Drug use = 13%

Gun crimes = 0%

When it comes to BB guns or any gun (safety is important issue.) If you have been around BB guns you have been told they are not toys. And sadly, many people still treat them as such.

That is not the case in my home.

Safety truly is the most important aspect of using BB guns. Injuring someone (or even potentially kill someone) with a BB gun can easily become a reality for ignorant people. Whether it is a BB gun or any other type of gun the same gun safety rules must be followed.

The Cub scouts - Boy Scouts teach BB Gun / gun Shooting & Archery

Even the Civil Air Patrol teach children (Cadets) gun safety - even meet once a month at the range for target shooting. That's open to the entire family.

So let's put an end to this BB gun issue.

(The above is how I feel about Gun's - kids and gun's - granted not every word is mine - but it describe my thoughts more clearly.)
